AWAKENED BY HYPNOTISM

Girl in a Trance Regains Her Mental Powers in a Strange Way.

Hypnotism was the means of restoring to complete control of her mental faculties yesterday Miss Sadie Garetzky of West Grove, near Asbury Park, N. J., whose catatonic sleep of nine days had baffled the skill of half a dozen physicians.

Miss Garetzky's case was peculiar.
She is nineteen years old. Her parents are poor and she worked in a shirtwaist factory near her home.

On November 21, while at work, she had a violent quarrel with another young woman. At the end of the war of words she rushed home and flung herself on a sofa. She seemed hysterical and was able to say no more than that cruel words had been spoken to her and that she desired only one thing in life—to forget them.

Almost immediately she fell into a heavy sleep, from which she did not awake until last Thursday. Then she opened her eyes for a few moments and again passed into trance-like condition.

On Saturday she became semi-conscious and remained so with short intervals of heavy sleep until yesterday.

Dr. Gustav A. Gayer, a hypnotist, of this city, had read of her long sleep and became profoundly interested when he learned that besides having been induced by mental excitement it had apparently been brought on by her overwhelming desire to forget the harsh words. He concluded that she was selfhypnotized and that he, by counter-hypnotic suggestion could restore her to a normal state.

Yesterday he obtained her parents' permission to treat her by the methods of modern hypnotism. A reporter was in the sick room while Dr. Gayer operated.

Miss Garetzky lay staring vacantly at the ceiling when the hypnotist entered. She made no replies to his first questions. The pupils of her eyes were greatly dilated and the eyeballs were drawn back so that the iris of each was partly covered by the eyelids. The patient seemed to have no control over them.

Dr. Gayer began by placing his hands lightly on her brow. He kept them there fully five minutes without speaking or attempting to make her speak.
Then suddenly withdrawing his finger tips from her forehead, he took her hands in his and said:

"Do not try to forget any more. It is better to awaken, and to forgive and be forgiven."

The young woman's drawn eyelids fluttered and her eyeballs moved until her eyes were level with the hypnotist's.
But she said nothing and Dr. Gayer waited several minutes before he said:

"Come, awake! Your mother, who is very dear to you, desires it. Your friend with whom you quarreled wishes your forgiveness, also."

Light seemed to dawn slowly in the sick girl's eyes. Then a smile began to play about her lips and she spoke.

"I am better than I have been."
"Tell me that you want to live and that you have put away your hate," he said gently as the girl seemed to hesitate.

"Say it," he said again.

In a perfectly normal voice the pale young woman replied:

"Yes, I want to live. I hate no one.
I forgive."

After a few more words Dr. Gayer left her. Miss Garetzky seemed to be perfectly normal as she bade Dr. Gayer good night and thanked him for coming.

Dr. Gayer said Miss Garetzky's case was undoubtedly one of self-hypnotism, and one of the most remarkable he had ever seen.—New York World.

A Domestic Fable.

Once upon a time a youth who had commenced to navigate the sea of matrimony went to his father and said:

"Father, who should be boss, I or my wife?"

Then the old man smiled and said:

"Here are 100 chickens and a team of horses. Hitch up the horses, load the chickens into the wagon, and whenever you find a man and his wife dwelling stop and make inquiry as to who is the boss.

Wherever you find a woman running things leave a chicken. If you come to a place where a man is in command give him one of the horses."

After seventy-nine chickens had been disposed of he came to a house and made the usual inquiry.

"I'm boss of this ranch," said the man.

"Got to show me."

So the wife was called, and she affirmed the husband's assertion.

"Take whichever horse you want," was the boy's reply.

So the husband replied: "I'll take the bay."

But the wife didn't like the bay horse and she called her husband aside and said:

"I believe I'll take the gray horse."

"Not much," said Missouri, "you'll take a chicken,"—Minneapolis Journal.

An Honest Job.

It speaks well for public opinion of the general honesty with which the Panama canal is being dug that the more money spent the more progress it is believed is being made. Government jobs don't always pan out that way.—Baltimore News.

Envious Professor.

Probably Prof. Drake of Michigan university nominated Roosevelt for king of the United States because he was tired of the University of Chicago faculty getting all the publicity.—

Fine Play By a Good Company.

The Della Pringle stock company seems to be able to handle any kind of a play, from strictly refined society drama to the sensational melodrama.

"The Galley Slave" was the play last night and it is a good one. Every character was handled with snap and enough to make any play a hit. Miss Pringle firmly established herself with the audience by her clever conception of the part of Cicely Blaine, her work being of that high class order which has won for her a place among the foremost actresses of this country. Mr.
Hogan as the count more than made good. Jack Benjamin as Norcott made himself popular by his fine portrayal of the part. Mr. Hopkins is a character man of no mean ability and his work in the character of Dr. Olyphant was out of the ordinary. Special mention should be made of the ladies of the company, each one being an artist in their line.
Miss Laird, Miss Hamilton and Miss McConnell were charming in their respective parts. The specialties were all good, especially the work of Fred Stephens and Bole Laird. Claude Kelley, the clever comedian of the company, is always sure to please both in parts and specialty, and last night he was encored a number of times during his vaudeville stunt.—Tucson Daily Star.

Thought It Was Whisky Straight.

An absent minded man in a Roman collar and frock coat approached the ticket agent in the Grand Central station several days ago and began in an embarrassed manner to explain that he wanted a ticket to a town near Boston, but he had forgotten the exact name.

"You see, I am not sure, but—but," stammered the reverend gentleman, "dear me, it can't be, but I am sure—yes, I am sure it was something like Whisky Straight."

"Not much," laughed the ticket agent. "Not around about classic Boston—Whisky Straight? Might be near Cheyenne or Tombstone or Medicine Hat—but a little town near Boston named Whisky Straight? I guess you want to go to Jamaica Plain, Father."

He did.

A Female Jury's Finding.

In 1863 the body of a woman was found dead at Newbury under circumstances which rendered a coroner's jury desirable. Twelve women were called, and a copy of their verdict has been preserved. As it is about as lucid and satisfactory as most modern verdicts, it is well worth publishing here:

"We judge, according to our best light and contents, that the death of said Elizabeth was not by any violence or wrong doing to her by any person or thing, but by some sudden stopping of her breath.—New York Press.

No Mind After Twenty-five.

Few men after twenty-five are able to learn much. They become day laborers, mechanics, clerks of a mechanical order. Others probably can go on somewhat longer and obtain higher positions, and there are men who, with extreme variations in endowment, preserve the power of active and original thought far on into life. These, of course, are the exceptional men, the great men.— C. S. Minot, in the Popular Science Monthly.
